

Mediation Fees and Costs

Helping Families Move Forward with Clarity and Confidence

Mediation Voucher Scheme

If your mediation involves child arrangements, you may be eligible for the Mediation Voucher Scheme.

- This is not means-tested
- It may contribute up to £500 towards mediation costs

Please note: the voucher does not cover the cost of a MIAM.

MIAM (Mediation Information and Assessment Meeting)

- £125 per person
- £50 MIAM Certificate if required for a court application

Payment is required at the time of booking to secure your appointment.

Mediation Sessions

- £125 per hour, per person

Payment is required at least 48 hours in advance.

Appointments are only confirmed once payment has been received.

Documentation (if required)

Following mediation, you may wish to receive written documents to record your discussions and any agreements reached:

Open Financial Summary – A summary of your financial information, including income, assets, and liabilities. This document is open and can be shared with solicitors or used in court if needed.

Summary of Proposals (Memorandum of Understanding) – A document setting out the proposals reached in mediation. This is not legally binding but can be used by solicitors to prepare a formal agreement.

Parenting Plan – A written record of arrangements for your children, including living arrangements and future decision-making.

£250 per document (£125 per person)

Payment is required before drafting begins.

Important Information

Legal Aid

Legal Aid may be available for family mediation if you meet the eligibility criteria.

I do not currently provide Legal Aid-funded mediation directly. However, where appropriate, I can work alongside an accredited Legal Aid mediator through co-mediation, enabling eligible clients to access Legal Aid-funded mediation.

If you think you may qualify for Legal Aid, please get in touch to discuss your options.

- A minimum of 48 hours' notice is required to cancel or rearrange an appointment
- Appointments cancelled with less than 48 hours' notice are non-refundable
- Weekend appointments are available at £150 per hour, per person and are subject to availability
